meds can help a person, but divine intervention and/or counseling help a whole lot more.
like the article said it relates to math, rather helps in math and many other things such as (again as the article said) listing specific things, objects, people.
before you have to take again freezer and refrigerator for the liquid